

LUXURY REDEFINED

CUSTOMIZATION IN TODAY'S HIGH-END HOMES

Today's luxury homes are less formal and involve more than high-end finishes and square footage. They're highly personalized. Here are examples of luxury home elements in custom room makeovers.

What could be more luxurious than having a space that meets your exact needs? Rooms can be anything you want them to be. With a little imagination and style, rooms can be highly personalized to complement a cherished hobby or activity. Are you a music lover? Why not devote a room to your baby grand piano? Here are some other inspiring ideas:

- A dining room can become an office, music room or den with a wet bar. Or absorb the space to create an expansive custom kitchen with a stylish banquette.

- Section off part of the basement and turn it into a wine cellar or sauna. Or add a second kitchen for more convenient entertaining.

- Larger foyers can house a secretarial desk or table for computer time or be lined with book cases to make an impressive library entrance.

- Extra guest rooms can become an office, craft area, library or home theater.

Welcome to the new age of luxury! Regardless of where or how large, today's luxury homes should have the personalized features that make it uniquely yours. These are the key features that define luxury living.
